Procurement Category Management

Ref: 1510_4191 Date: 18 – 22 July 2027 Location: Doha Fees: 4300 GBP

Category Management is a five-day category management course delivered by Mars Training Centre at international venues — in London, Paris, Dubai, Madrid, and Istanbul — designed for category managers, sourcing leads, and senior procurement professionals responsible for the strategic management of major spend categories.

Category management is the operating discipline that turns procurement from a transactional buying function into a strategic business contributor. Done well, it aligns sourcing decisions with corporate strategy, drives multi-year value beyond price reduction, and gives the business the depth of market knowledge it needs to compete. Done poorly, it produces shelfware: category strategy documents that no one acts on and savings claims that the business never sees.

Across five focused days, you will work through the full category management lifecycle from spend analysis through to plan execution. The week combines structured frameworks with category strategy exercises drawn from real spend profiles, and is delivered by senior practitioners who have led category organisations in industry. You leave with a personal action plan grounded in your own category portfolio.
